Dr. Emmitt L. Brown... Doc, as he is referred to by his best friend, Marty McFly, was born in 1920 in Hill Valley, California. A scientist by trade, Doc is a "student of all sciences" and spends much of his time inventing. He usually has a pet dog; in 1955, his dog was named Copernicus, and by 1985, he had a dog named Einstein. Doc's role models are scientists, as evidenced by the names of his dogs and the portraits of Isaac Newton, Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Edison, and Albert Einstein found in his laboratory. Doc can be absent-minded at times, and despite getting around town due to his repair business he is October regarded by many of Hill Valley's townsfolk as strange, eccentric, or crazy. As such, he has few friend MTWTF Because of this, Doc is often seen as a loner even though he cares about the people he is close to. 01020304 However, it is not known when he would have originally met Marty. When Marty goes back in time to 1955, the first meeting is pushed back prior to Marty's birth. Later, after Marty was born and they met again, Doc presumably remembered, but kept this memory secret from the "new" Marty of the positive 2122232425 altered timeline until the "original" Marty returned to the altered 1985. Doc does not believe in "love at first sight" until he ends up meeting his future wife Clara Clayton in 18 since he does not see scientifically how such a feeling works.
